XS Brokers Appoints Jason Brudnick as Chief Information Officer

Quincy, MA - September 10, 2025 – XS Brokers, a premier independent insurance underwriting and wholesale brokerage group, is pleased to announce the appointment of Jason Brudnick as Chief Information Officer (CIO), effective September 2, 2025.

Jason brings a wealth of experience in systems architecture, data management, and strategic technology leadership as Chief Technology Officer for Accession Risk Management Group; parent company of Risk Strategies and One80 Intermediaries.

In his new role, Jason will be instrumental in strengthening XS Brokers' systems and operational processes. More importantly, he will lead the strategic growth initiative focused on aligning technology infrastructure with all facets of the business—from internal operations to client-facing platforms.

"Jason's expertise and vision will be critical as we continue to evolve our digital capabilities," said Eric Wirkus, CEO of XS Brokers. "His leadership will ensure our systems not only support our current needs but also drive innovation and scalability across all aspects of the organization."

Jason's appointment marks a significant step in XS Brokers' investment in technology, systems, and infrastructure – enabling greater productivity, enhanced data intelligence, and deeper client engagements.
